

S. Viets retake town, Red units near Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese paratroopers flown into action by helicopter today drove North Vietnamese troops out of An Loc, 60 miles above Saigon, but the Communist offensive rolled on elsewhere and Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airbase came under fire to night.

Military sources said Communist gunners fired three rockets at Tan Son Nhut on the northwestern outskirts of Saigon but missed the sprawling base itself and killed 11 civilians, and wounded four when the explosives hit a market place.

It was the first attack on the Saigon area since the Communists launched their offensive March 30 and the first since last Dec. 20 when a small rocket attack hit inside the city and wounded a number of persons.

Military sources said a force of 1,000 elite South Vietnamese paratroopers landed outside An Loc, recaptured the town and drove the Communists back two miles with the aid of extremely heavy B52 raids and attacks by waves of U.S. fighter-bombers.

The paratroopers reported later they found one small bank of North Vietnamese holed up in about 20 houses on the north edge of An Loc. "They cannot get out and we are hitting them with pointblank artillery and air strikes and helicopters," a military source said.

In other major developments in Indochina:

A South Vietnamese Marine force backed by tanks attacked an entrenched North Vietnamese force two miles south of Dong Ha, about 10 miles south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and was beaten back in extremely heavy fighting. Front dispatches said the Marines retreated, leaving "some" bodies behind.

Radio Hanoi reported heavy U.S. air attacks on North Vietnam today and said six U.S. jet fighter-bombers were shot down. It made no mention of the fate of the pilots. The U.S. command had no comment on the Radio Hanoi claim.

The Cambodian High Command in Phnom Penh reported another major battle in Kampong Trach, 70 miles south of Phnom Penh, where Communist forces are trying to break through Cambodian and South Vietnamese defenders to the Mekong Delta below Saigon.

Anti-war protest planned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two groups announced plans today for an antiwar demonstration in front of the White House Saturday.

They were promptly described by the chairman of the House Internal Security Committee as Communist dominated "seeking an American defeat in South Vietnam."

Rep. Frank Church, D-Mo., said in an annual report of the committee—formerly known as the House Committee on Un-American Activities—that the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ) and the National Peace Action Coalition (NPAC) were "openly calling for a Communist victory by North Vietnam."

Spokesmen for PCPJ said they intended to conduct a protest demonstration in front of the White House.

Nixon, Trudeau meet in Ottawa

OTTAWA (UPI)—President Nixon met with Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau today for private talks on global matters and U.S.-Canadian relations before addressing a joint session of Parliament, the highlight of his three-day Canadian visit.

On his arrival in Ottawa Thursday, Nixon assured Canadians the United States respected their right to political and economic independence. He was to pursue that theme during the 90-minute meeting with Trudeau.

The President arrived at Trudeau's office on Parliament Hill six minutes behind schedule at 9:36 a.m. EST. The two leaders shook hands and then went inside.

During the two-mile motorcade from Government House, where Nixon is staying, to the parliament complex, small groups of Ottawa residents turned out to see the American President pass.

Nixon's appearance was marked by unprecedented security in Ottawa. He walked through a line of scarlet-coated Royal Canadian Mounted Police after departing from his limousine on the hill.

Nixon and Trudeau posed for pictures in the Gothic-arched rotunda before going to the prime minister's office on the third floor in the House of Commons.

Nixon was to address a joint session of Parliament at 3 p.m. His speech is billed by White House aides as the highlight of his visit.

On his arrival in Ottawa Thursday evening, Nixon pointed out the undefended border between the United States and Canada as an example to the world of how two nations "can settle their differences by talking instead of fighting."

Both leaders, however, have served notice that they do not expect a breakthrough in the current impasse in troublesome trade disagreements.

With both Nixon and Trudeau facing re-election campaigns in the coming months, there was little give on either side on the key issue of economic relations between the nations who are each other's biggest trading partners.

But Nixon went out of his way to soothe the ruffled feelings in his remarks on arrival at Ottawa's Upland airbase.

Water fund suit looms

BOISE (UPI)—A court test may be necessary to determine whether revenues from the Swan Falls Guffey project may be dedicated to southwestern Idaho irrigation projects, an attorney said today.

Philip Peterson, Lewiston, told the Idaho Water Resource Board bond attorneys may ask for such a test because of questions raised by an attorney general's opinion.

He referred to an opinion issued during waning days of the recent legislative session in which the attorney general pointed to a possible conflict between a state law and the Swan Falls-Guffey Contract.

Kennedy to fire shuttle

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has chosen the Cape Kennedy as the main operational base of the planned $5.5 billion space shuttle program, Rep. Louis Frey Jr., R-Fla. said today.

Frey's office was informed that the space agency would make an official announcement later today.

The space shuttle is to be a re-usable spaceship, capable of returning to earth for repeat flights.

Several areas of the country had been in competition to be a base either for the landing of a re-usable booster rocket or for the landings of the spaceship itself.

Frey's office said Vandenberg Air Force Base in California would be used for polar flights that cannot be made from Florida.

At launch complex 39, engineers started the flow of hydrogen and oxygen to the spacecraft's three fuel cell generators and the resulting chemical reaction produced electricity and water which is used for drinking.

The fuel cells will remain in operation throughout the 12-day mission and will supply nearly all the command ship's power. The lunar lander uses batteries.

Advisers laud control effect

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two of President Nixon's economic advisers testified today his wage-price control system had worked "dramatically."

They also contended that the worst of the increase in food prices—particularly the cost of meat—was now over.

But they acknowledged they were not sure the inflation rate would be cut to the desired goal of 2 to 3 per cent by the end of the year.

The economists, Herbert Stein and Marina V.N. Whitman, testified before the congressional Joint Economic Committee. Stein is chairman and Mrs. Whitman the newest member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

"The Phase I and Phase II programs—the freeze and its successor—have dramatically reduced the anxiety in the country," the economists said in a joint 35-page statement.

"They have significantly reduced the rate of inflation below what it was before the freeze and below what it almost certainly would have been without the freeze."

"We believe that the price and wage control system will continue to contribute to slowing down the rate of inflation and to the expansion of output and employment. We cannot say we are sure that the system as it now exists will achieve our goal of getting the rate of inflation down to the 2 to 3 per cent annual rate by the end of the year."

"We do not expect anything like the present control system to be a permanent part of the American economy," they said.

TF schools reveal $90,000 error

By RICHARD G. HIGH
Times-News Managing Editor

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls School Supt. George Staudaher revealed today that an error of $90,000 had been discovered in the school budget approved last year.

In order to compensate for the unexpected loss of $90,000 income, the district had been forced to reduce spending below the amount budgeted for 1971-72, he said.

Because of rising costs elsewhere, Staudaher said, the district took the bulk of the cuts from the funds budgeted for elementary teacher salaries.

Staudaher said the error would explain a budgeted decrease in spending proposed for 1972-73.

Staudaher said the total amount of proposed spending on 1972-73 teacher salaries would be above that expected actually to be spent during 1971-72, but falls below the amount incorrectly budgeted for 1971-72.

Staudaher said the $90,000 error would help explain an inconsistency in the budget proposed Thursday for the next school year.

In the budget: Teacher salary schedules were held constant at current levels.

The number of teachers would remain unchanged.

Less money would be budgeted for total teacher salaries next year, in comparison with the amount budgeted for salaries in 1971-72. Staudaher said today that both teacher salary schedules and the number of teachers would be unchanged, as reported.

But contrary to the announced budget, the total amount allocated for teacher salaries would have to rise slightly, he said.

The slight increase is necessary, he said, to provide additional pay to those teachers who are advancing up the seniority scale.

A low number of new teachers is expected to be hired this year, causing the average tenure of teachers to rise.

With the advancing tenure comes additional seniority pay, which the district must provide, Staudaher said.

The $90,000 error in the 1971-72 budget was caused when anticipated income from an emergency 3-mill levy was added twice, ballooning the anticipated district income by $90,000.

According to Staudaher, the error was not discovered until later in the year following final approval of the budget.

Staudaher relayed the incorrect budget figures in the 1972-73 budget presented Thursday.

He said he had not noted the error "to avoid hurt feelings."

The incorrect budget had been drafted by former Supt. Ernest Ragland and approved by the school board.

Staudaher today released estimates of the expected amount of money to be spent and income received during the current school year.

Had it not been for the $90,000 error, he said, the district would have had an income from all sources about $50,000 above expectations.

But with the error, district income is expected to fall about $40,000 short.

According to District Business Manager J. T. Anderson, meeting with Staudaher, the extra $90,000 had been designated for elementary teacher salaries, inflating that budget item.

Actual 1971-72 spending in the elementary teacher salary category is expected to be about $84,000 less than budgeted, he said.

The overall category of instructional salaries, including the elementary salaries, was held to about $104,000 below the amount budgeted.

The bulk of the money taken from the instructional budget was transferred to fast-inflating fixed items and other operational areas, he said.

The shift of funds from instructional to other areas during the current year brought the percentage of instructional costs to about 71 per cent of the total general fund expenditures—down from about 74 per cent of the preceding four years.

In the new budget proposed for the coming 1972-73 year, the percentage is held at 71.9 per cent, maintaining the trend.

Staudaher said today that even at the lower percentage expenditure for instructional costs, the district is well above the national and state averages of about 70 per cent.

All of the proposed spending for 1972-73 apparently hangs by a narrow thread—expected local tax receipts.

Several important questions are unresolved here, Staudaher said.

First, the size of the district's tax base is still unknown. Last year the tax base had been estimated "conservatively" at $30 million. It fell short by more than $12 million.

This year the tax base is again estimated at $30 million, but district officials are not so sure of that figure this time.

The $30 million figure would call for greater tax base growth than in the preceding year.

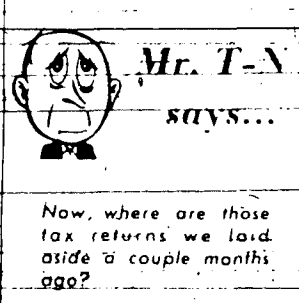

A second factor has yet to be measured—this year for the first time $75 can be deducted from the property tax bills of persons over 65 years of age.

Those deductions will cut directly into the tax receipts of the district.

County officials privately estimate the reduction at as high as five per cent.

A five per cent reduction could cost the Twin Falls schools over $90,000.

If that were to happen, the district could be right back where it was this year—another $90,000 short.

Now, where are those tax returns we laid aside a couple months ago?

Demos renew appeals

By United Press International
Three Democratic presidential candidates have renewed appeals to President Nixon to bring a halt to U.S. military activities in Vietnam.

Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie and Rep. Shirley Chisholm Thursday said American forces are being drawn into an expanding conflict after months of reduced activity.

In Washington, antiwar businessmen tentatively endorsed Sen. George S. McGovern as the 1972 peace candidate. The organization called Business Executives Move for Vietnam Peace also named eight "hawkish" congressmen they will try to help turn out of office in the November elections.

The congressmen cited were Reps. John J. Rooney, D-N.Y.; William S. Mailliard, R-Calif.; George P. Miller, D-Calif.; Chet Holifield, D-Calif.; James H. D-W.Va.; Goodloe E. Byron, D-Md.; William O. Mills, R-Md.; and Lawrence J. Hogan, R-Md. Humphrey, at South Bend, Ind., on a tour that included stops in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Minnesota, said "the U.S. is very much deeply involved again" in the fighting.

Blind woman receives gifts from bus riders

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Myra Metz, a mother-to-be, heard a bus full of laughter when she attempted to sit at her regular place behind the driver on bus No. 25. It was piled with gifts.

She couldn't see the presents or the sign reading "Surprise Baby Shower for Myra," because she is blind. So is her husband, Ken, who boarded with her.

"Surprise!" hooted driver Ken Kjellberg when the 27-year-old woman boarded at her usual stop.

"She's been riding the bus about two years. Everybody knows her," said one woman passenger.

About a dozen persons met the bus early with gifts for Myra. At each stop passengers boarded with wrapped boxes and about 15 persons gave her money.

"I feel so stupid," said Myra, who works as a medical transcriber in a hospital. "I wore an old uniform and my oldest coat. I'm so embarrassed."

During the ride, the bus driver wore a perpetual smile while one woman passed out a tubful of cookies, most of them heart shaped with the word "Baby" in blue on pink frosting.

Brunnie, the Metz' seeing eye dog, was given two dog-shaped cookies.

"My dog knows all of us," a woman said. "We all bring breakfast for it." Brunnie pulled his head back and barked.

Nearly everyone knew that Myra, who is expecting her first baby, had only two more days to work.

She said she told her husband, "What if I decided not to come today?" and he kept shouting for her to get up. "He never does that," Mr. Metz, who works as a telephone operator, was in on the scheme.

"It was everyone's idea though," explained one woman as Kjellberg drove the busload of friendly faces to their destination.

"I feel like I'm driving a USO bus," the cheerful driver quipped.

YMCA governor asks 5% sales tax

BOISE (UPI)—The governor of the 1972 YMCA youth legislature called today for an increase to a five per cent sales tax with the money to be used to fund public education.

Mac Knight, Boise High School, youth governor, opened the two-day mock legislature by telling a joint session of the high school delegates they must use the session to "prove to the older generation that they have not made a mistake by allowing us the rights we now have."

He said the students must show adults the legislative session was "not just an instrument of learning, but a platform where we can express our opinions and ideas on a government in which we are not active participants."

In his "state of the state" address, Knight called for an end to use of property tax to fund public education and instead asked for the sales tax increase to "provide for a more equal and fair means of funding public schools."

Noting Idaho is "over abundant with God's blessing," he called for formation of a commission to "investigate clean, non-polluting industries and promote to them Idaho as a place of business."

"This I feel would lessen the tax burden on the average Idaho citizen, it would bring increased revenue into our state and with strictly enforced controls and regulations, I do not feel it would decrease the natural resources which we now have."

Knight also proposed revising school districts in the state, consolidating many smaller schools to provide some of the advantages offered by larger schools.

Revising and updating many parts of the old state criminal laws reinstated by the 1972 legislative session, "keeping in mind always that crimes are not prevented by punishing the criminals after the crime has been committed, but by rehabilitating the criminal or eliminating the cause of the crime before it happens."

And lowering the age of majority in all areas to 18 years of age.

2 contests develop in school vote

TWIN FALLS — At least two of the five school board trustee zones in district 411 will be contested in the trustee election slated for May 5.

Dr. Marvin Strope, mathematics instructor at the College of Southern Idaho, filed a nominating petition today and will face newly-appointed Tom Kiely for the trustee position from zone 4.

John Wolfe, board of trustee chairman, also filed a petition today, bringing to six the number of filings. Eight other petitions are being circulated.

Incumbent trustees—Dr. Howard Runk, Mrs. Ruth Day and Kiely have filed, as has Frank DeLuca, who will oppose Wolfe in Zone 1.

Wolfe has served eight years on the board. He is a former Twin Falls City Councilman and is known for contributions to education and athletics.

Strope has been a faculty member at CSI since the school opened in 1965.

He teaches earth sciences, mathematics for teachers and astronomy.

Strope's petition contained 22 signatures. The required number is five.

He said he is basing his candidacy on the idea that the proposed 1972-73 school budget must be carefully studied to see if it represents the true priorities of School District 411.

He said he champions quality education by virtue of good teachers and a reasonable wage for those teachers.

Dorm residents eligible to vote

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho students living on campus can vote in the May 3 school board elections.

District 411 Supt. George Staudacher said he has checked with school attorneys and if students living in dormitories meet voting requirements, they may vote in the trustee election.

Students would have been a resident of Twin Falls County for 30 days, a resident of the state of Idaho for six months and be 18 years of age or older to meet those requirements.

Deadline extended

TWIN FALLS — The deadline for filing federal and state income tax returns has been extended to midnight Monday April 17 because April 15 falls on a Saturday.

Internal Revenue Service officials said any returns postmarked after midnight Monday will be considered delinquent.

Kidnaping charges made in TF case

TWIN FALLS — Two men officers took the two into were held in the Twin Falls County jail today charged with second degree kidnaping.

They allegedly took two juvenile girls across a state line.

In custody in lieu of bonds were Joseph Robert Hughes, 35, $1,000 for Hughes and $1,500 for Filer, and Darrell Boudrie, 35, Glendale, Ariz.

Sheriff Paul Corder said his

TF windows broken

TWIN FALLS — Windows were broken in several business firms Thursday night, mostly in the south and west areas of Twin Falls, police said.

While on routine patrol, police discovered a bus parked between two buildings at Kirkman Bros. Transportation Co., 240 6th Ave. W., with a broken windshield. Officers said a beer bottle had been thrown, breaking the bottle and windshield. Damage was estimated at $100.

Detweiler Bros., 726 Shoshone St. S., reported a small window was broken from their business building but it appeared no entry had been gained.

Officers reported an estimated $150 damage at the Chevron Service Station on Washington Street South where a rock was used to break out a large plate glass window.

At the 1001 Rentals, 740 Shoshone St. W., damage was estimated at $200 when a rock was used to break a hole in the center of a large plate glass window.

Officers said investigation is continuing in all of the incidents.

CSI concert Sunday

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho will present a band concert at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Fine Arts Auditorium.

The program will feature the concert band and stage band, along with guest artists soprano Marty Mead and tenor Eugene Milton.

They will be heard with the concert band in selections from "Oklahoma," "The Music Man" and "George M."

After intermission the stage band will present several jazz numbers, including "Mrs. Robinson" and "Goin' Out Of My Head" by Burt Bacharach.

Lawrence Curtis is band director. The public is invited to the concert and admission is free.

Double trouble

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — A West Virginia University coed wasn't satisfied when B. C. Bryant paid a $50 fine on assault and battery charges filed by her.

Idaho college GOPs plan meeting in TF

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho College Republican League plans to meet with GOP Senate candidates Saturday at the Holiday Inn.

Gary Chase, state chairman of the league, said the group will caucus April 21 and 22 in conjunction with State Young Republican Convention activities that weekend in Twin Falls.

The league and other Young Republicans from throughout the Gem State plan to talk with candidates George Hansen, Rep. James A. McClure, Robert E. Smylie and Dr. Glen Wegner.

Chase said the convention will see his group looking to change the composition of the Republican party to include youth.

"We propose," said Chase, "that a national youth committeeman be elected from each state from the 18 to 25 age group."

During the league caucus on April 21, the group will elect a new chairman to replace Chase, who has been elected regional director of Pacific Northwest College Republicans.

Chase said the league hopes to elect a committeeman from the youth group as a delegate to the State Republican Assembly.

Demo caucus Monday

TWIN FALLS — Democrats from legislative district 24 will meet for a party caucus here Monday evening.

Hazel Wilder, district legislative chairman, said the caucus is set for 8 p.m. Monday at the Rogerson Roundup Room.

The Thorny Unemployment Problem

WASHINGTON — The thorny and complex unemployment problem is headed for a new round of rancorous partisan rhetoric and politics-saturated maneuvering and legislating. Bills to provide large scale Federal financing to put several or more million unemployed in "public service" and other jobs by September are in the works in two key quarters — the White House and Congress.

Tentative price tag of these still-incomplete plans is $5 billion. When they will surface is a toss-up. Both the Administration and Democratic Congressional leaders are aware each is drafting a far-reaching program designed to directly come to grips with the tough and sticky unemployment issue. Ever since the jobless rate hit 6 per cent last winter, there has been inside word that Labor Secretary James Hodgson and Budget Director George Shultz were formulating an "accelerated public works" measure to deal with this economically and politically disturbing condition.

Republican members of Congress worried about re-election were assured by a White House spokesman, "Whatever is necessary to kick unemployment will be done, even if we have to resort to some kind of make-work formula. The President is acutely aware of the urgent need for effective remedial action, and you can definitely count on it. It is in preparation for submission to Congress."

Getting wind of this is what impelled Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., and Democratic floor leader Hale Boggs, La., to suddenly erupt last week with a denunciation of the President's economic policies and "failure" to do anything about unemployment.

They hinted strongly the Democrats are framing a job-making plan of their own for early submission. Actually the stage has been set for that for some time. It's ready-made — the House Public Works Committee, headed by Rep. Blatnik, D-Minn., who has a long record of championing Federally-financed job-making legislation. He put through one such $2 billion bill a year ago, but it was vetoed by the President. Undiscouraged, Blatnik produced another smaller measure and enacted it by a big majority.

This time the President accepted the bill and it is now well underway.

Last month Blatnik, close friend of Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., directed the Public Works Committee staff to prepare new legislation aimed at the big jobless problem — this time with heavy stress on WPA-type projects.

The tall, forceful Minnesota liberal makes no bones about the source of this concept, saying, "The make-work proved very successful in coping with widespread unemployment in the New Deal, and there is no reason it wouldn't do now. What worked for FDR will also work for Nixon, whether he likes it or not."

"He can't stop it, and I don't think he would try in this highly uncertain election year. He is the one who is hurting from a high unemployment rate. Democrats aren't. We have been trying to do something about it over his opposition."

Significantly, potent Republicans are exerting backstage pressure in support of such legislation.

Social Security

The Social Security noose is tightening around us. If there were some way to escape, we would.

We sympathize with the California state employees, who asked the state legislature to pull them out of Social Security. Thousands believe they can get more for their money by increasing contributions to the state retirement program.

Backers of the proposal say the state can match Federal Social Security benefits for state employees at half the cost by adding part of their present federal payments to the state program. The pullout would affect 115,000 California state employees.

Most of us, however, do not have this option. We're stuck with a program that appears more and more like a big government scheme to redistribute the income.

Proposals in the Social Security-Welfare bill (HR-1) would boost the taxable wage base from $9,000 to $12,000, and provide for automatic tax-base increases in the future.

We wouldn't mind this so much, except that those who make the greatest contributions during their working careers won't benefit much more than the minimum paid worker. They should feel somewhat cheated.

The Senate Finance Committee has recommended a minimum payment of $200 a month for any worker covered by Social Security for 30 years, or $300 a month for the worker and his spouse.

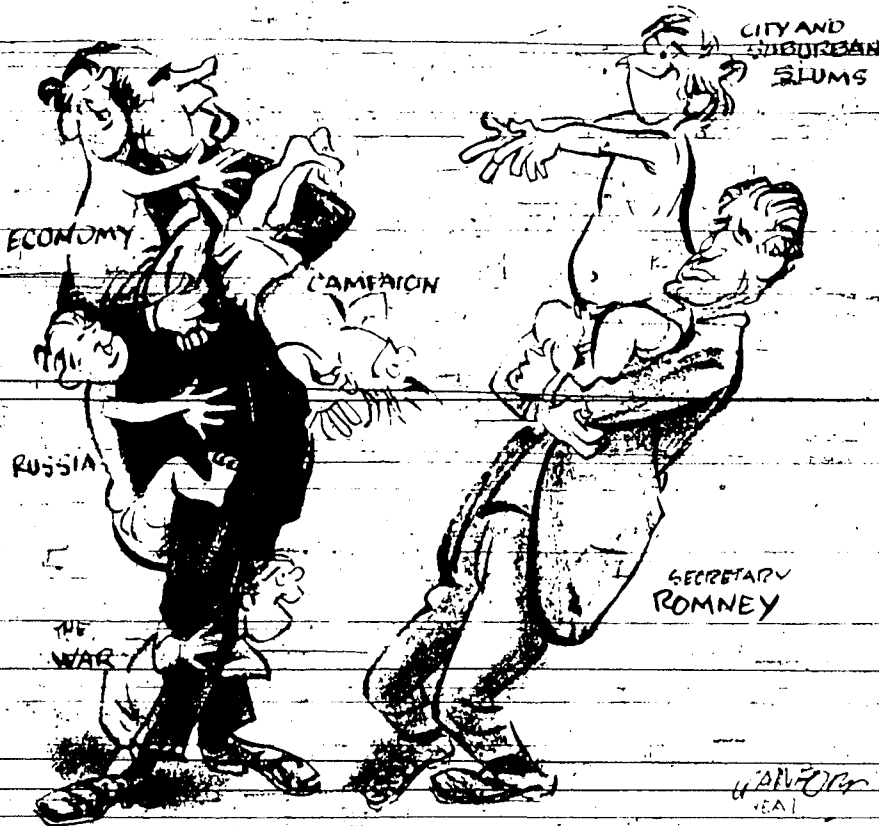

If approved by Congress, this provision would give any SS beneficiary an amount only $16 a month less than the retirement income for those who have contributed maximum amounts during the same period.

A committee in the House, less liberal, has favored increasing the minimum monthly benefits to $150 for individuals and $225 for couples — which we could live with. The present minimum for a 30-year worker, on retirement, is about $133 a month.

Whatever the outcome, it is certain in this election year that Congress will vote increases in Social Security benefits, whether across the board for all retirees, or within minimum wage workers getting the greatest boost.

Social Security has never been noted for sound actuarial principles. Politicians are playing with benefits to gain votes. It is becoming a giant welfare scheme. And it might collapse if enough people were given the option to pull out and contribute to private or state insurance and retirement programs.

"Didn't You Ever Hear of the Pill?"

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Eye Transplants

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the percentage of success in eye transplants? How soon after death would the eye have to be removed? Transplanted how soon? Could arrangements be made through your regular eye doctor? J. F.

I omitted the details of your letter as you asked me to. I commend your intentions, but a transplant such as you are thinking about, of a complete eye, is not possible.

The part of the eye that is used is the cornea, the transparent outer covering of the eyeball. There are cases in which, because of accident or other hazard, the smooth, clear cornea has been scarred, and no longer transmits light clearly.

The scarred cornea can be removed, and the clear cornea of a good eye transplanted. That method by now has restored good vision for a great many people, but it is applicable only when that type of problem is involved, a defect in the cornea. It does not correct problems involving glaucoma, damage to the eye nerve, detached retina, and other defects, although some of them can be helped by other means.

An eye, to be used for a transplant of the cornea, should be removed as soon after the donor's death as possible. It is kept refrigerated, but the transplant also is performed with the least possible delay. This is an eye, when available, is carried by plane or other rapid means of transportation to the hospital where it will be used.

Anyone willing to leave his eyes for such use should, therefore, make known in advance that he is willing to do so, and make arrangements through his doctor (eye doctor or other physician) who in turn can notify those who must be ready to accept the eyes.

Incidentally, the removed eyes are replaced with artificial eyes, with pains being taken to match the color of the eyes even though the donor's eyes will be closed. There is no external sign indicating that the eyes have been removed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have had glaucoma for eight years and understand there is no cure for it. My ophthalmologist says it can only be checked

The other day a woman told my husband she had been operated on and her glaucoma had been completely cured. Is there such an operation at the present time? — Mrs. M. H.

There is surgery for glaucoma, but I would be very cautious indeed about describing it as a "complete cure." That is to say, surgery can be used in advanced cases to reduce the pressure inside the eyeball, which is the basic problem in glaucoma. Many times the operation may help, other times it does not. You may be certain that your ophthalmologist knows about such surgery, and would recommend it if you needed it or if it promised to help you more than whatever your present treatment is. No doubt you are receiving medication.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Two years ago my daughter was born with a critically low blood sugar, and had to be force-fed glucose in water before breast feeding.

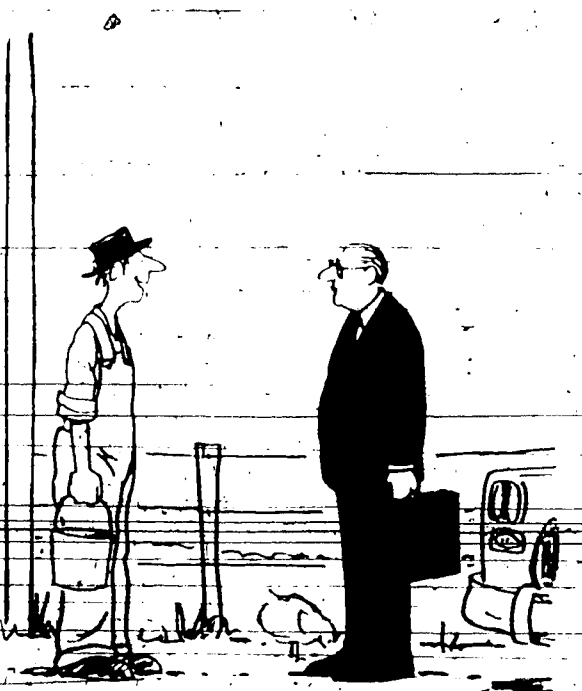

Will she always be hypoglycemic? Should I have her blood sugar checked often? — M. E. L.

Not necessarily. Quite a few infants can have a sharp drop in blood sugar shortly after birth. This usually corrects itself as feeding progresses. Unless she shows signs of low blood sugar, I would leave it to the pediatrician as to whether to have blood sugar tests.

Low blood sugar — a puzzler until correctly identified. Is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual and emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of his booklet, "Help for Hypoglycemia," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated into his column whenever possible.

BERRY'S WORLD

The Fire House

After 20 years without a fire, people get tired of the fire brigade. This was the way one official of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization described the current status of Western Europe's major defense mechanism.

NATO is now 22 years old and showing its age. Not so much in substance as in outlook.

Its armaments and troop strength have been maintained, but it is falling short of its resolve to become more heavily supported by the European members.

The United States still pays three-fourths of NATO's costs and maintains large troop commitments on the continent. Powerful members of Congress are pushing for reductions in both.

A great deal of talk has ensued among the European members about increasing their commitments, but so far there has been little action.

Perhaps the fire brigade analogy is not so far from the mark. Those closest to the fire house take it most for granted — until it is moved.

BRUCE BISSAT

Longer Terms

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A thoughtful ex-bureaucrat, anonymous here, suggests that frustrated, alienated Americans may pay a very high price if, in their anger and impatience, they make a habit of casting out presidents, governors and the like after short service.

He was not making the argument to urge the reelection of President Nixon to a second term. But he was contending, in general way, that four years is too short a time to achieve significant change in government policies.

Let's take a couple of examples — welfare reform and the sharing of federal tax revenues with the states and cities.

The evidence is strong that on both of these issues there is a broad consensus of national support. In the 1968 campaign, Republicans and Democrats alike called for welfare change, with full confidence that nearly everybody, including most welfare recipients, wanted it.

When seen as a means of easing state-local tax burdens, revenue-sharing clearly has wide appeal, too.

President Nixon first proposed sweeping welfare reform legislation in August 1969. It is nearly three years since then, and we still do not have it. He advocated his own version of revenue-sharing more than a year ago; and we don't have that, either.

You can offer up a basket of reasons these things are taking so long: insufficient pressure from the White House, divided government (with the Democrats holding Congress), roadblocks imposed by powerful individual lawmakers in key positions. The point my ex-bureaucrat would make is that these difficulties are today commonplace and must be dealt with as part of the grinding legislative process.

The man argues that, in the best of circumstances, this process is inherently slow. A new administration needs years to get its own people placed and established, to open proper lines of contact with the continuing bureaucracy, to develop understanding, and finally to shape major changes and try to push them through.

In today's evident national mood, wherein impatience seems to have been elevated to a way of life, the increasing tendency of American voters is not to wait this slow process out. They toss governors onto the scrap heap like last year's automobile tires. And we hear much these days about what might be a developing vogue of one-term presidents — though

PAUL HARVEY

Primaries

Sen. Ed Muskie said it. Winning isn't everything, but losing isn't anything.

What are the primary election results trying to tell us?

Diverse as the results appear at first glance, a pattern is becoming apparent in the political primaries.

George McGovern was the big winner in Wisconsin. However, his hurt opponents question the significance. Sen. McGovern got the most votes.

In Wisconsin it's allowable to crisscross party lines in a primary so anybody is pleased with the "Establishment" anybody to either the right or left of Nixon had an opportunity to express dissatisfaction, or the left for McGovern, on the right for George Wallace.

Meanwhile, the "What'll we call them?" moderate voters, middle-roads, the less dogmatic dissenters divided their votes among all those other fellows, thus appearing much less numerous than middle-roads always are.

Said less obliquely: When the extremists rally around any one person, they can outshout the divided majority. But in a two-man race, they can't outvote the majority. The Republicans had to learn this lesson in 1964. The support for Goldwater was loud and persistent. In public meetings — even on some campuses — Goldwater rallied those opposed.

no trend has set in yet.

If that should in fact become a habit, my source contends that we would then have created a serious discontinuity between the political process and the policy-making process.

In other words, should voters impatient of the policy process work out their anger by throwing the incumbents to the winds, then they are breaking the thread of developing change.

by Goldwater, cemented the illusion of mass support.

But the sobering results of the subsequent election demonstrated that the "catalyst for conservatives" was in fact supported by less than a majority of his own party.

Probably George McGovern speaks for the left-most third of the Democratic Party. George Wallace, speaking for the right-most of both parties, personally has a wider support base than that on which McGovern's hopes are so precariously perched.

Where Humphrey and Muskie are chopping one another down in the primaries, it must be remembered that together they captured the support of almost half the voter population of our nation.

Now Sen. Humphrey is letting it be known among certain financial supporters that he'd be willing to accept Ted Kennedy as a running-mate.

History says a ticket like that would get less applause and more votes.

Where, history says, a Goldwater or a McGovern gets more audible applause but fewer votes.

The vocal minority raises the loudest shout. The silent majority has the most clout. Ideologists who would pull us left or right are outweighed by unfrantic pragmatists — who refuse to be shoved off balance in either direction.

MR. SPECTATOR

Science And Dogs

Most communities, including those of Magic Valley, have a perpetual problem with dogs and to date no rational solution has been found. There are barking dogs, biting dogs, flower-trampling dogs, straying dogs and canines which are disease carriers.

Dogs, when puppies, are cute and cuddly. Children cannot resist them. In many cases adults don't dare. In a few months, however, they grow big and boisterous. Children play with them at more and more infrequent intervals. They have become dogs.

Finally, they are just plain pests. But once a dog has been "adopted," it is almost treason to dispose of it. So they hang on and on.

Old people have genuine fondness for pets and give them attention. But their young owners seldom do — for long.

Perhaps there is one possible solution. One that can be mentioned without arousing howls of protest. Science in this atomic age has produced many wonders. Perhaps some scientist can develop a drug which will arrest canine growth, and keep a puppy in perpetual puppyhood.

Always soft and cuddly, always lovable and loved. Never neglected or allowed to stray. Almost never, that is.

SAMENESS

Ever drive up behind a car stopped at a red light and try to guess the sex of the long-haired driver behind the wheel? It can be an interesting game, especially when the properly identified female turns sideways to reveal beard and mustache.

Unisex, of course, is a fad which will not reign forever. Although it has been around long enough to make some observers a bit uneasy. Like the woman who said she preferred her man to smell like a combination of stale tobacco and old gym socks.

Instead, his before-shave lotion, after-shave lotion and perfumed bath soap combine to produce a scent even a cheap perfume manufacturer would gag on. What she was particularly uptight about, however, was that his hair was longer and curlier than hers.

Glassy berries

SPOKANE (UPI) — A batch of frozen strawberries has been recalled by the Food and Drug Administration after a Spokane area woman reported she cut her mouth while eating them. The batch apparently contained slivers of glass.

Steve Herbison, director of sales for U.R.M. Stores, Inc., said all of the strawberries have been recalled from retail outlets here and destroyed.

The FDA reported the recall affected more than 35,000 pounds of sliced, frozen strawberries distributed in the state between Feb. 10 and March 10.

Dita Beard has severe attack

DENVER (UPI) — ITT Lobbyist Dita Davis Beard suffered "acute heart spasms" Thursday. Her doctors described the attack as "definitely severe," but said she did not require hospitalization.

She was given medication and oxygen, and then placed under the care of a private nurse who spent the night with Mrs. Beard in her rented Denver apartment.

Dr. Lewis M. Radetsky said his patient's attack was similar to one she suffered March 26 while undergoing questioning from a Senate judicial subcommittee.

The subcommittee traveled to Denver to question the 53-year-old woman about a memorandum linking settlement of an International Telephone & Telegraph (ITT) antitrust suit with a $400,000 donation to the Republican national convention.

Before suffering the attack, which forced her doctor to call a halt to the proceedings, Mrs. Beard denied writing the memo.

Following Thursday's attack, Radetsky asked Mrs. Beard if she wanted to return to Rocky Mountain Osteopathic Hospital, where she underwent treatment during March, but she rejected the suggestion.

Condition stable

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson's condition is so stable hospital officials say they will not be issuing regular statements as he recuperates from a heart attack suffered a week ago.

His condition was described as "quite good" Thursday by his doctors.

His further convalescence is expected to be uneventful, the doctors said.

Johnson, 63, suffered the heart attack while visiting his daughter Lynda and her husband Charles Robb, who is a law student at the University of Virginia.

Johnson was transferred from Virginia to the Brooke Army Medical Center, 80 miles from his LBJ ranch, late Tuesday.

Senate OK's presidential war curb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill to curb presidential powers to wage undeclared war went to the House today where it was expected to get a cold reception.

The bill, born of frustration over the prolonged Vietnam conflict, cleared the Senate Thursday 68-16 with the bipartisan support of both hawks and doves despite vigorous opposition from the administration.

It would force presidents to seek advance congressional approval before committing U.S. troops to long-term fighting abroad, but would not apply to the Indochina war now more than 10 years old.

Backers hailed the action as a "historic" first step toward putting Congress back on equal footing with the White House in deciding crucial questions of war and peace on issues they said too long decided by presidents alone, acting under their authority as commander-in-chief.

But foes said it would endanger the national security if enacted and some hinted broadly that President Nixon would veto the bill should it ever reach his desk.

But few Capitol Hill observers expected the bill to go that far. The House has consistently rejected tough antiwar measures sent to it by the Senate and last August routinely approved a mild war powers bill simply calling for a presidential report whenever American forces were committed to action abroad.

The differences would have to be resolved eventually by a joint conference committee, although there was a possibility the House antiwar bloc might try to force an up-or-down vote on the Senate version.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., the chief architect of the bill, was undaunted by the odds. He said public pressure would force the House to accept his bill.

All predictions as to what will happen to this measure will go up in the air-like smoke if the people feel this gives them a decent reassurance both as to the security of the country and as to the peril to their lives and fortunes, Javits said after the bill passed. "I have great confidence that it will, and that a measure very much like this one will become law."

The Javits measure, first drafted in the aftermath of the 1970 U.S. offensive into Cambodia, would require the president to obtain advance approval of Congress before committing U.S. forces to military action except in a tiny number of emergency situations. Even if that were obtained, the president would have to halt the action in 30 days unless Congress authorized an extension of hostilities.

The rhododendron is the official flower of the state of Washington.

IRS aide hits licensing plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Internal Revenue Commissioner Johnnie M. Walters doesn't believe the proposed federal licensing of consultants who prepare income tax returns is practical.

Walters acknowledged in an appearance before a House Government Operations subcommittee Thursday that there is widespread fraud and incompetence in the tax preparation industry.

But he said it would be an overwhelming task for his agency to investigate the estimated 200,000 preparers. He said some of the preparers might still be dishonest or incompetent but could use a federal license to attract customers.

Walters said the IRS may ask Congress for authority to seek federal injunctions to prevent preparation of returns by those who consistently prepare false or deficient returns.

He said the agency also may ask for statutory penalties of 10 percent to 25 percent of the tax deficiency caused by a preparer who knowingly understates income or overstates deductions, exemptions or credits.

Gonorrhea up in Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — The number of cases of gonorrhea in Idaho continue to climb.

Arthur Boyle, director of venereal disease control for the state, said a total of 488 cases have been recorded so far this year, compared to 320 for the same period last year.

Boyle said self-treatment of the disease with pills, salves and ointments is dangerous.

Alabama is 24th in size when compared to the other 49 states. It has 53 miles of coastline.

West approves

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Western senators joined with their fellow lawmakers Thursday and approved 68-16 legislation designed to prevent presidents from waging undeclared wars.

The bipartisan move ignored vigorous White House opposition to the move. Eleven western Democrats and five area Republicans joined in the vote that crossed party lines.

Labor won't 'yield,' Meany says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said Thursday night that organized labor would not flinch before pressure from government or business interests in its efforts to secure economic justice for workers and consumers.

"We don't yield to pressure whether imposed because of greed for profits or for political power," Meany told a dinner crowd of labor officials.

'Concerned' hijacker surrenders

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Ricardo Chavez-Ortiz says he is concerned about many things, including pollution and prejudice against Mexicans, but contends if he walked into a television or radio station to air his message he would be passed off as a "crackpot."

So Thursday he allegedly hijacked a plane. He later apologized.

According to authorities, Chavez-Ortiz, 37, an unemployed cook and the father of nine, commandeered a Frontier Boeing 737 over Arizona and ordered it to fly to Los Angeles. After releasing the plane's 27 passengers and three stewardesses, he allegedly demanded an "interview" with the broadcast media.

Newsman from Spanish-speaking radio and television stations complied and the mild-mannered Mexican national rambled on for two hours and 45 minutes. Thirty minutes of the conversation were broadcast live over radio, as he insisted. He monitored the broadcast.

Chavez-Ortiz, wearing the pilot's cap, delivered his harangue in an emotional voice and delved into several subjects, but directed most of his criticism toward "Anglo society," blaming it for job and housing discrimination toward Chicanos.

"Forgive me, captain," Chavez-Ortiz told pilot Wille Hurt after his interview. "I never intended to hurt anyone."

The hijacker then turned over his pistol, which he noted was unloaded. FBI agents immediately took him into custody.

A U.S. magistrate later ordered Chavez-Ortiz held in lieu of $500,000 bail. A public defender, in arguing for a reduction in bail, described him as a "solid citizen."

The day-long drama began Thursday morning when the gunman seized control of the regional airliner on a flight from Albuquerque, N.M., to Tucson, Ariz. The hijacker left his seat about 20 minutes out of Albuquerque, produced a gun and ordered the plane be flown to Los Angeles. About three hours later the passengers were released.

One of the passengers, Anna Caswell, 75, of Albuquerque, was en route to Tucson to enter a resthome to recover from a stroke. She was rushed to a hospital after her release. Her condition was described as satisfactory.

Prior to his interview, the hijacker said he had thought about going to a radio or television station to state his views, but decided against it because he would have been "laughed out as some crackpot."

Authorities said Chavez-Ortiz had been living in Santa Fe, N.M., since losing his job in Los Angeles where his family remained.

In Denver, Frontier president Al Fedman said Chavez-Ortiz had been questioned before the flight but was permitted to board without a search.

"I am very intelligent and I know how to use and achieve my plans intelligently," Chavez-Ortiz told the two newsmen who interviewed him.

State evidence given at trial

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—Items taken from the body of kidnaper Jonathan Jackson—$2.07 and a telephone number—were introduced as state evidence Thursday at the murder, kidnap and conspiracy trial of Angela Davis.

Among the belongings was a yellow slip of paper with the number of a public telephone at San Francisco International Airport, where Miss Davis boarded a flight for Los Angeles August 7, 1970, the day of the Marin County shootings. Miss Davis is charged with supplying the guns 17-year-old Jackson carried into a courtroom to free three convicts and take a judge and four others hostage. Jackson, two of the convicts and Judge Harold Haley died inside an escape van in a 19-second burst of gunfire. Prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr. made no comment on the phone number Thursday, but he said in his opening statement that a person wouldn't carry a number unless he intended to use it.

Harris also carried a bag of bloody clothing, including the robes worn by Haley, into the courtroom. The defense stipulated that the items were correctly identified as belonging to the victims and they weren't shown to the jury.

The trial was recessed until Monday after a pathologist who said he's conducted 10,000 autopsies since 1950 testified that Judge Haley could have died from either of two wounds.

TV network suits pending

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department has announced it soon will file suits charging that the three major television networks—and a company which syndicates old television programs have violated antitrust laws in prime-time programming.

Department spokesmen said Thursday the suits against CBS, NBC, ABC and Viacom International would be filed shortly, perhaps today. The suits would charge the companies "monopolized and restrained" prime-time programming and would fall under sections of the Sherman Antitrust Act. Viacom International is involved in television program syndication of old CBS shows and cable television.

A spokesman said news, public affairs and sports programs would not be involved in the actions. CBS and ABC and Viacom said the suits were without merit and they would fight them. NBC declined to comment immediately.

Few price raises

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (UPI)—Bethlehem Steel Corp., industry leader in price increases in recent years, said Thursday it would not raise prices on the vast majority of its products until the end of the year. The announcement was praised by the Price Commission chairman.

The move by the nation's second largest steel producer upset executives of other steel companies, who will be virtually forced to follow along to remain competitive.

No move expected for GOPs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The committee planning this summer's GOP National Convention in San Diego today admitted it has been having some problems, but gave no indication it plans to move the event to another city.

The suggestion that such a move might be wise came from Robert F. Knowles, who is coordinating this year's Republican meeting just as he did in 1968.

In a letter to Dick Herman, national committeeman from Nebraska and vice chairman of the convention arrangements committee, Knowles said escalating costs and construction problems, including contract disputes with labor unions, were presenting difficulties. He said:

"Adding all of our problems together, some of which we may never solve, I have come to one conclusion: I believe that if there is some way at this point to change the convention city, you should give it every consideration."

"In my opinion, there is an extremely high risk that the opening caveat will fall on Aug. 21 in San Diego, and I therefore urge you to give every consideration to encouraging the power that be to move the convention to another city."

The public is invited to attend.

CHURCHES

Missionary escapes

BY DIXIE DIXON
Times-News writer

RICHFIELD — Word was received this week from Elder Charles H. Jensen, presently serving a mission for the LDS Church in Peru; that he is safe.

The area where he is living in Peru has undergone the worst torrential rains and floods in the history of the country.

In a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jensen, Richfield, he reported that he had been transferred from Pura, to Chiclayo. He and four other adults and four children had set out in a car for Chiclayo in what would usually have been a four-hour drive. The trip took 15 hours because the driving was so hazardous, he said.

They traveled through Mocupe that had been "literally destroyed" by rains and floods. The river there was one-half mile wide and 8 to 10 feet deep running right through the middle of the city. Most of the homes, made of mud bricks, had been virtually washed away.

Within one-half hour of driving time there were four inches of rain on the highway. At one place the road was washed out, so he and his party parked with about 10 other stranded cars, and stayed until daylight.

Jensen and his companion got what sleep they could on the hood of their car, but didn't get much rest because of so many mosquitos, frogs, and chiggers. They had to move boulders, logs, and debris off the highway before they could be on their way.

At another place water had risen over the bridge and men on the opposite bank threw ropes back across the river and pulled the vehicles across — for a fee of $2.50. The driver of Jensen's car wouldn't pay that price and all of the passengers had to get out and walk. He took the fan belt off the car and made it across through two feet of water.

At Chiclayo there had been great destruction. Sewers are backing up and the pollution is terrible, Jensen reports. Most of the crops have been destroyed.

Despite the rains, he said that he was glad that he was safe there instead of in Northern Peru where there have been earthquakes recently.

Faith stronger with research

By LOUIS CASSELL

United Press International — Two recent discoveries by distinguished scholars — one Christian, the other Jewish — have strengthened enormously the historical basis of the Christian faith.

The more significant of the two findings is the result of many years' painstaking work by Prof. Jose O'Callaghan, a Spanish scholar at the Pontifical Biblical Institute in Rome. He has identified 19 tiny scraps of papyrus, found in 1947 among the Dead Sea Scrolls, as fragments of a copy of St. Mark's gospel written around 50 A.D.

The date is what matters. Biblical scholars have long assumed that Mark's gospel, based on recollections of the Apostle Peter, was set down in writing shortly before Peter's death in Rome, which would date it around 68 A.D.

Since Jesus was crucified about 33 A.D., the previous dating of Mark's gospel — generally regarded to have been the first one written — left a hiatus of 35 years in which the historical details of the life of Jesus either were transmitted by word of mouth or by now-lost records, such as the famous "Q" document which scholars have long postulated but never found.

German biblical scholarship, sometimes called "form criticism," has been predicated since the 19th Century on the assumption that during this lapse of 35 years the actual facts of Jesus' life became heavily intermixed with myth and legend. This was the basic thesis behind Albert Schweitzer's "Quest for the Historical Jesus" and Rudolf Bultmann's attempts to "de-mythologize" the gospels.

O'Callaghan's papyrus fragments, established by scientific methods as having been in a Palestinian library in 50 A.D., indicates that Mark's gospel may well have been in circulation within about a dozen years of the time of Jesus' death.

This is very important because it means Mark's record had to survive the acid test of any journalistic or historical writing — being published at a time when it could be read, criticized, and if inauthentic denounced, by thousands of Jews, Christians, Romans and Greeks who were living in Palestine at the time of Jesus' ministry.

That the early church chose Mark as one of only four gospels out of dozens once in circulation to be preserved for posterity in the New Testament also indicates the people closest to the events — Jesus' original followers — found Mark's report accurate and trustworthy, not myth but true history.

The other significant discovery was made by Prof. Shlomo Pines of Hebrew University in Jerusalem. For centuries, scholars have sought references to Jesus in non-Christian historical writings of his period. They have found several, but the most widely quoted and most controversial is in the "Antiquities" of the Jewish-Roman historian Flavius Josephus.

What made Josephus' remarks about Jesus suspect to scholars was that they seemed to accept the entire Christian theology about the divinity and resurrection of Jesus, which a Jewish-Roman writer would be unlikely to do in one isolated paragraph. Thus it was widely believed that some Christian scribe had tampered with Josephus' original text to interpolate Christian dogma.

Evidence supporting this thesis has now been found by Pines.

Relief group sponsors crafts class

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone LDS Relief Society sponsored a ceramics class for 26 women at a recent session, under direction of Mrs. Johaza Patterson of Carey.

The workshop included a luncheon and a discussion on "The Wise Use of Time."

Mrs. Patterson brought a number of figurines, paint and brushes to the class. Each woman selected her own design and coloring pattern.

Mrs. Patterson said she has opened her own shop in Carey, known as "Johaza's Ceramic Shop." Instructing customers in the art of finishing the custom-made molds, she also provides a kiln to finish the ceramic work for her customers.

Mrs. Patterson's daughter in law, Mrs. Jean Patterson, also of Carey, assisted with the work.

Former bishop to visit

TWIN FALLS — Rt. Rev. Norman L. Foote, former Episcopal Bishop of Idaho, will make his last official appearance at the Twin Falls Episcopal Church of the Ascension this Sunday at 3 p.m.

Rev. Foote will confirm a class of candidates presented by several Magic Valley congregations. The candidates will be presented by Rev. Michael Fitzgibbons of Christ Church, Shoshone; Rev. W. D. Ellway, Emmanuel Church, Hailey; Rev. Frederick Pickett, Trinity Church, Rupert; and Rev. Albert Allen of Ascension Parish, Twin Falls.

A reception will follow the ceremony, sponsored by Episcopal women for those being confirmed and their friends and relatives.

Other Sunday services at Ascension Church include Holy Communion at 8 a.m., and presentation of the Eucharist at 10 a.m., accompanying Church School.

Pastor slates visit

TWIN FALLS — Rev. Edgar Toews, who served as interim pastor of the Twin Falls First United Presbyterian Church, is returning for a visit this Sunday.

Rev. Toews served the Twin Falls church from October, 1970, until April, 1971.

He will visit during the 9:30 a.m. service, then will deliver the sermon "Where Is Your Heart?" during the 11 a.m. worship service.

Charles Airhart will read the Scripture during the worship service, and the junior choir, directed by Mrs. Charles Airhart, will sing "The King of Glory." The adult choir will also present a number of selections.

A potluck dinner will be served following the 11 a.m. service, in honor of Rev. Toews, in the church gymnasium. Those attending should bring a covered dish and their table service.

Rev. Toews will also address the senior high group at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Women attend rally

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Lauren Butts, Filer, was installed as president of the Central Association of American Baptist Women at the recent spring rally.

Representatives from nine area societies attended the rally which had as its theme "Hear the Word of God — Listen — Listen — Love — Live."

Also installed were Mrs. Chad Maxey, Jr., Rupert, secretary; Mrs. Della Dunlap, Buhl, vice president of interpretations; Mrs. Ray Webb, Shoshone, chairman of business and professional women, and Mrs. Joe Skaug, Jerome, program chairman.

Mrs. Calvin Graybeal, Castleford, communications; Mrs. Paul Bancroft, Shoshone, missions; Mrs. Elma Lightfoot, Twin Falls, special interest missions; Mrs. Earl Fish, Gooding, white cross.

Mrs. Frances Langford, Buhl, Christian service; Mrs. H. L. Arbaugh, Hailey, social relations; Mrs. Gene Kovar, Filer, love gift; Mrs. Jessie Emerson, Hailey, leadership development; Mrs. W. G. Sizemore, Gooding, spiritual growth; and Mrs. Fred Peterson, Jerome, literature.

Rev. James Hughes, Twin Falls, offered the morning prayer and welcome. Mrs. John Wilson, Buhl, retiring president, gave the response. Mrs. Sizemore directed the morning devotional service, and Mrs. Carl Snow, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Keith Stein, Jerome, were in charge of the election, and Mrs. Roy Watson and Mrs. Alton Lookingbill, Filer, directed the installation service.

The group made plans for the Idaho State American Baptist Women Conference July 5-8 at Cathedral Pines north of Kelchum.

Guest speakers in the afternoon were the Rev. and Mrs. William Stone, Salt Lake City, who spent 20 years in Kodiak, Alaska, working with orphans.

Mrs. Floyd Austin, Buhl, presented music in the afternoon meeting and offered a prayer. Mrs. Charles Jackson, Jerome, was soloist.

A salad luncheon was served at noon.

A Lovelier You

TAKE OFF FOR FACIAL FUZZ

By Mary Sue Miller

No woman is happy about unwanted hair on her face. With the problem a woman cannot help wondering why she was singled out. She really wasn't.

The trouble is prevalent, a not unusual happenstance, among the over-40 group. Even young girls sprout fuzz on the upper lip and chin.

Expressed simply, facial hair is caused by a hormonal imbalance at almost any age. Several medications — notably cortisone and the pill — stimulate growth of hair on the face as side effects. Of course you never have to suffer an outcropping. It doesn't brood, get busy and depilate. It's the quickest solution. New cream treatments are simple, near and safe. A preliminary test is recommended in case your skin might prove to be an extra sensitive one.

A plus, for cream hair removers is the inclusion of another smaller tube of "skin softening conditioner" to soothe any irritation and to normalize the skin texture. Both creams are gentle and pleasant to use. And you will find that your skin is not only stubble-free but that regrowth is surprisingly slow. The process need be repeated only as fuzz reappears.

As a result you will always possess a visage glancing the French say.

STRICTLY PERSONAL
The thing you need to know about depilatories and depilatories is contained in my book, "STRICTLY PERSONAL." All doubts are cleared up about why, when, when and how to use these miracle depilatories. For your copy, write to Mrs. Sue Miller in care of the newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in cash.

Knits made fashion hit

One reason double knits are going to the front of the fabric parade with home sewers: the fabric is stable. It does not ravel and therefore no seam finish is required. A knit skirt can be hemmed by hand so it is almost invisible from the right side.

Generally, your girdle size is determined by your waist measurement. Waist measurement 23 to 24 takes an extra small; 25 to 26, small; 27-28, medium; 29-30, large; 31-32, extra large; 33-34, double extra large; 35, 36 and so on, by a number corresponding to the waist measurement.

The halter dress for spring and summer fits with a revival of fashions from the 1940s. Among the new ones is a halter dress by Ferdinando Sarmi in a Trevira knit for the Kira Collection. This knit, full-length orange dress was shown with a paisley jacquard evening coat.

Here is a real swing hand from a recent IMP match where the swing was the result of expert play as against good play.

Both tables reached four spades, an identical bidding and the first trick was won by South's ace of hearts. Three rounds of trumps were taken. At this point the play diverged.

Declarer at table one led a heart. East won and returned a club. West won with the queen and played the jack of diamonds. Now South played two high diamonds and threw East in with a third diamond.

East led a second club and there was no way to keep West from scoring the set.

ting trick with the king.

South had been unlucky. Both clubs had to be wrong and in addition East had to hold the long diamond. He had been unlucky but he had also missed the sure thing play.

At the other table South cashed the ace and king of diamonds before getting off lead with a heart. East won and led a club to West but now West had no way to get off lead with a diamond. He actually led a third heart which allowed South to run in dummy and discard a club from his own hand.

This play would not have worked against a 4-1 break in diamonds but no play would work against that card combination and South had guarded against everything else.

DEAR ABBY: My wife's mother became widowed last year and came to make her home with us as my wife is her only child. At first we treated Grandma like a guest, but she soon started to take over, criticizing my wife's handling of our children and her extravagance in managing the house. Then she started in on the children. She found fault with their friends, their clothes, their habits and the noise they made.

The old lady even told me that I should give up golf as it was a "silly" game, and took too much of my time away from my family. She also told me that I subscribed to more magazines than any one person could possibly read.

The kids and my wife have been very patient and respectfully silent thus far, but I know they resent Grandma. How can I put this old busybody in her place without a major flare-up? Or should I keep quiet and wait until my wife also has a bellyful and handles it her way?

BELLYFUL IN'S. F.

DEAR BELLYFUL: Let your wife handle it her way. You probably won't have to wait long.

DEAR ABBY: Why do basically honest people cheat at bridge?

We are members of a bridge club, and one of the women in our foursome always keeps score, and almost all the time she wins the high score prize. As soon as the game is over, this woman makes a pretense of clearing off the table and she immediately destroys the score sheets.

This annoys all of us who have noticed it, and if she did not have otherwise lovable qualities we would drop her from the foursome.

Can you please give us some ideas on how we can straighten her out without offending her or causing her embarrassment?

SUCH GOOD FRIENDS

DEAR FRIENDS: Basically honest people do not cheat at anything. Either keep this lady with the "otherwise lovable qualities" honest by relieving her of the score keeping job or drop her.

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote in asking what to do with unsolicited stuff that comes in the mail. Some organizations send out personalized key chains, packets of Christmas cards, name stickers and a lot of other items, hoping the recipients will send them a dollar or two.

I wish I could afford to help all these missions, churches, veterans, handicapped people, etc., but I am on social security and I can't. Also, why should I have to pay postage to return stuff I never sent for in the first place?

Well, here's the answer: My mailman told me that if I ever get anything in the mail I did not order and do not want, I shouldn't even open it. But if I do open it, I can tape it closed again. I just write on the package, "Refused: Return To Sender."

The sender will have to pay the postage for its return so you won't have to worry about hearing from them again because after a while, they'll get the message.

NO MORE JUNK

DEAR ABBY: Mark Evans, Ph. D., who says he is a grown man who enjoys living at home with his mother and father, and is probably considered an oddball by society because he respects his parents and shares their values, did not disclose the subject of his degree.

If it's psychology, I will kill myself!

Blaine must retain 93

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — Wood River Valley residents should "emphatically instruct" the Idaho Highway Department to retain U.S. Highway 93, State Rep. E. V. McHan said Thursday.

McHan's comments brought applause during a Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce meeting in which members unanimously accepted the finding of a five-man committee which studied proposed highway routings from the junction of Highway 68 north to the forest service boundary.

Committee chairman William Innes said the group's proposal all related to the "uniqueness of the narrow valley." The findings included:

— "Every study should be made to reduce the express traffic flow through the area as a whole. The committee recommended that the present highway be improved, widened, and the curves lengthened, but said that it 'questioned a 240-foot right of way along with frontage road requirements.'"

— "The committee was a proposed east route which loops through the Trail Creek and Bitterroot areas and west over the Saddle Road to the present Highway 93."

— "The west route through Ketchum, adjacent to the railroad right of way, 'needs more study.' The report said that the route would result in the loss of ten homes, an apartment house and 'valuable residential property.'"

— "The communities of Hailey and Bellevue should be supported in their decisions on the proposed highway realignments.

Chamber member Robert Neely said a further recommendation should be made that the Wood River be "avoided" in any rerouting. He said the river was "one of the primary assets of the area."

McHan said the present U. S. 93 should be modernized, but a minimum of private ground be purchased. "The more property bought, the more property is taken off the tax rolls," he said.

But District Engineer Howard Johnson, Shoshone, said that if U.S. 93 is resurfaced and widened, the project would be done "strictly with state money," without about 70 per cent federal funding. He said federal standards require a four-lane facility.

In response to a question, State Deputy Highway Engineer Dean Tisdale, Boise, said the possibility exists that railroad right of way could be used, perhaps for at least one direction of traffic.

Tisdale said in meetings with railroad officials, they "indicated some interest in abandoning a portion of the line." Tisdale said the highway department was "extremely interested" in the idea because it would "resolve problems of right of way purchase and rail crossing construction."

But Tisdale said the plan would become possible only after agreement from railroad management, permission from the Idaho Public Utilities Commission and public hearings.

Johnson told the council a dead horse and cow had been dumped in the animal pit of the city dump last week. He said there is no soil to cover them, to comply with State Health Department regulations. Because of the lava rock base, it was earlier determined that there is no suitable place in Gooding County for a sanitary landfill.

Restricting the dumping area would result in animals being dumped along the roads, according to Chief of Police Dale Burn and Sheriff's Deputy Bill Bunn. They recommended owners of dead animals contact hide and tallow companies in the area and pay for disposal of the animals.

The councilmen were asked to inspect city streets this week to set priorities before any street work is done. Councilman Gilbert said overweight trucks have been driving on the city streets the past year. He recommended load limits be set to comply with state and county regulations before next spring.

Mayor Soares set April 17 as Spring Clean-Up. City workers will pick up debris placed in the alleys during this time. Soares read a list of places needing special cleanup from the Gooding County Health Council, including weeds in lots and around public buildings, and unsightly trash on public and private property.

The council accepted a bid from Harbaugh Motor, Gooding, for a 1972 Dodge Polaris for a new police car, at $2,700 plus trade-in. The bid included service and installation of police equipment. The other bid was from Leo Rice Chevrolet for a Bel Air model without installation at $3,000.

Councilman Vernon Mason reported the tennis court in the city park needs a cement pad. Since there are no funds available, Mayor Soares said he would ask the Lions Club if they would take this as a project.

Soares was authorized to purchase tires for the dog catcher's truck. Ed Johnson,

"The motel business today is growing and the Ponderosa Inn, consisting of only 60 units in 1962, has grown to over 200 units and is one of the largest convention centers in the region, grossing nearly $2 million a year," stated Lynch.

"Activities in the franchising area have stimulated inquiries from throughout the country, both from new investors and from existing motel companies. In spite of the current growth trend, we at Ponderosa Inn are more concerned with being the finest quality innkeeper in the world, not necessarily the largest," Lynch concluded.

Brakes fail

ABOUT $300 DAMAGE resulted this morning at Pay and Pack Electric and Plumbing Supply Co., 1960 Kimberly Road, Twin Falls, when a customer's brakes failed as he pulled up to the front of the building. The vehicle jumped a small curb and crashed into the store front breaking two panels of glass and causing slight merchandise damage. Calvin Wilson, manager, said Lloyd Morris, Twin Falls, was the driver.

Jerome man files for post

JEROME — A Jerome real estate man will seek election from district 1 to the Jerome Board of Education in elections scheduled for May 16.

William A. Kersey Jr., 41, said he will seek the seat now held by trustee Clare Fife, who has indicated he will not seek re-election.

Kersey, also an epidemiologist for the Idaho Department of Health, is a Jerome native. He said he opposes the current board's decision to tear down Lincoln Elementary School.

Kersey said the school can be used as an addition to the high school and the adjacent playground area as additional parking space.

The Jerome Board of Trustees plans to demolish Lincoln School and build an addition to Jefferson School.

Kersey said he would like to see Lincoln kept open until the district could determine what the growth factor in Jerome is going to be and what the impact of student enrollment will be over the next few years.

Final skiing

ALBION — A return visit from winter temperatures and new snow indicate excellent conditions for the final weekend of skiing at Pomereille.

The only ski resort in Magic Valley still operating, Pomereille reports plans to close following this weekend.

Snow depths continue from seven to 12 feet on the slopes with between nine and ten inches of new powder falling in storms this week. The road was being plowed today and should be in good condition, resort officials said.

Buses are no longer running to the area.

Kimberly slates citizen meet

KIMBERLY — Members of the Senior Citizen Advisory Council for the east end of Twin Falls County will meet Tuesday at 3 p.m. in the Kimberly Methodist Church.

All interested persons are asked to attend and discuss services and needs of the senior residents.

An organizational meeting of the council was held Wednesday in the Kimberly Methodist Church with Ruth Mitchell, chairman, in charge. Two new officers and several committees were named. Mrs. Mont Boyer Sr. is vice chairman and Esther Biel, Murtaugh, secretary-treasurer. Committees include building, Mrs. Boyer and R.D. McKinnis, transportation, Oliver Johnson and Robert Stradley, equipment, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McNulty, assisted by Shirley Miller and Neva Moore.

Equipment needed for the senior citizen center include a refrigerator and electric stove and other kitchen equipment.

Hagerman science fair considered outstanding

By WILMA LARSON
Times-News writer

HAGERMAN — The Hagerman High School and Junior High Science Fair held Wednesday evening proved to be an exhibit of outstanding projects again this year.

Winners in the math and physical science division were projects by Karl Uppiano, first, and John Martin, second. Uppiano's project was on invisible pollution and Martin's project was a radio which he had built.

A project on "Blood" by Ange Robinson and Rita Sauer and one on "Nitrogen" by Kenny Taylor, took first place and second place, respectively, in the biological science division.

Nancy Smalley won the soil conservation project honors. Junior high division first place went to a project on "Color" by a trio of eighth grade girls, Lana Williams, Julia Aspitarte and Janice Arterburn.

Three other eighth grade girls, Julie Hafen, Debbie Dan and Cheryl Hanson combined their efforts on a project on general diseases, placing second in the junior high division.

Judges were Bud Ainsworth Jr., manager of the State Fish Hatchery, Hagerman; Albert Gregg, retired Idaho Power Co. employee, and Jamison Holway, assistant manager, Federal Fish Hatchery, also at Hagerman.

Special reading class at Shoshone totals 40

By MELBA THORNE
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — There are 40 students in the "special reading" program taught by Mrs. William (Mary) Flavel, Lincoln elementary school.

Though this number of pupils is not recommended by state advisers, the work load demand at the school do not always accommodate the "usual" rule. Mrs. Flavel said, adding that she does not feel that the children dislike this type of training. In fact, it is the opposite. Their regular classroom teachers state they become upset if for some reason they have to miss the special reading period.

Her students range from the third to sixth grades, and number in the class at one time varies from four to 12.

Reading games to detect the child's weaknesses are popular as are the film strips, tape recorders, overhead projector, dictionary work and plays.

A series of books called "Little Reader" delight the children and the fifth and sixth graders, in particular, like the plays, she says.

Stories on tape from the Science Research Associates lab are used, which the individual child plays, then writes answers on corresponding sheets. One of these being used this week was to help the pupil detect "how the R controls the vowel sound."

Key word sounds, accent rules, basic sight word problems and de-coding are all stressed, Mrs. Flavel said. This is the sixth year for Mrs.

Flavel to teach this course at the school, previously having taught the third grade at Shoshone, and prior to that she had taught at Richfield, Dietrich, Gooding and in Texas.

Teachers from the Jerome and Gooding schools, in addition to Dick Jones from the Hailey, Blaine County disability learning center, have visited Mrs. Flavel's classes this year.

Mrs. Flavel said she received considerable training at the "Reading Center in Boise" to supplement her BA degree in elementary education from Idaho State University, Pocatello.

The special reading program next year in Shoshone is to be changed, to allow some of the pupils in first grade, who need the help, to enroll.

Hagerman island case set in May

GOODING — Court action to determine ownership of three islands in the Snake River near Hagerman will resume May 1 in Idaho Federal Court at Boise.

The case of Federal Judge Willis W. Ritter, Salt Lake City, versus Rogers C. B. Morton and the Department of Interior will resume in Boise with the return of presiding Judge Ray McNichols.

McNichols suspended court proceedings in late March when he became ill and subsequently underwent surgery for a ruptured appendix.

Ritter contends he owns the three islands because of unrestricted use he and previous owners have enjoyed since 1896.

He is questioning the right of the Bureau of Land Management to grant a recreation and general-purpose permit to the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

Meanwhile a bill introduced in the U.S. Senate by Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, is still in a subcommittee of the Senate Interior Committee.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, is chairman of that subcommittee. He has not scheduled hearings for the bill. Last week, Senator Church said the bill, which would authorize governmental sale of the three islands to Judge Ritter for $13,900, may not be reported out of committee this year. The measure will die if the committee takes no action on it.

Judge Ritter owns the Thousand Springs Ranch adjacent to the river islands.

Case dismissed against Simplot

BOISE — An Idaho Supreme Court ruling, announced today in Boise, has upheld a lower court decision to dismiss a complaint against J.R. Simplot Co.

John F. Chisholm and C.M. Manning brought a suit against the J.R. Simplot Co. as a result of a farming operation near Malta in 1965. The two appealed to the supreme court after a motion for dismissal by Simplot was granted in Fifth Judicial District Court.

The appellants alleged they had planted a potato crop on their farm near Malta and applied a weed killer to the field shortly after that. They said a crop failure resulted.

The Simplot Co., distributors of the weed killer, and the DuPont Co., manufacturers, were both named in a damage suit brought by the farm owners. Simplot filed a counter claim against the farmers to recover payment for materials sold by the company.

Two charged in Jerome burglary

JEROME — Arraignment was scheduled here today for one of two men charged with first degree burglary in connection with an incident at the Sawtooth Market late Thursday.

The market was extensively damaged by fire early Thursday. Before firemen could contain the blaze it burned through a central joist and the ceiling collapsed.

Fire Chief Lynn Bingham estimated damage to the market between $5,000 and $10,000. He said the blaze apparently started from electrical wiring in the attic.

Late in the evening a neighbor notified police after observing someone moving in the rear area of the building. Two suspects were arrested.

Chris Freeman, 21, was arraigned before Magistrate Russell Shaud and released on his own recognizance. Bobbie J. Arbaugh, 20, was scheduled for arraignment today.

Fiddlers' fete set

RUPERT — An evening of old-time fiddling is on tap Saturday night at Minico High School, sponsored by the Idaho Youth Ranch.

Lee Childs, executive director of the Youth Ranch, said the event will raise funds for activities of the organization.

The state's top-ranked old-time fiddlers will present a concert beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the high school, followed by dancing to fiddle music about 10 p.m. in the auditorium.

The public is invited to attend Childs said. The admission fee will admit a music lover to both the concert and the dance.

Hansen sets mill levy vote

HANSEN — School patrons in the Hansen School District will vote on the annual three-mill maintenance levy and elect trustees for three zones on May 15.

Supt. Percy Christensen said zones 1, 2, and 3 are up for election. Trustees presently serving in the zones include Harold Miller Jr., zone 1; Cecil Stanger, zone 2, and Ted Crockett, zone 3.

Polls will be open from noon to 8 p.m. at the Hansen school.

The budget hearing will be May 15 at 8 p.m. at the school. Christensen said the school had received full accreditation from the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools for the 1971-72 school term. Hansen School District has been fully approved for the past three years.

Valley school vote set

VALLEY SCHOOL — Valley School District patrons go to the polls April 25 to determine whether a school plant facility reserve fund levy will be continued.

The polls will be open at Valley High School from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m., according to Dr. Tom Utterback, superintendent.

The levy has been previously set at 2.5 mills and the request is to continue it at that level for five years.

The purpose of the levy is providing funds for the district to be used for purchasing building sites, construction of new school buildings, including architectural and engineering services; enlargement or remodeling of existing buildings when the cost exceeds $5,000; purchase of necessary furniture, fixtures and equipment and participation in Local Improvement Districts when the board of trustees determines the planned improvements will benefit the school plant and facilities.

Those qualified to vote must have been bona fide residents of the district for more than 30 days and be 18 years of age.

Ponderosa merges with firm in TF

BURLEY — C. R. Lynch, president of Ponderosa Inn Inc., Burley, announced today the merger of Ponderosa Inn, Inc., with Greater Idaho Corp.

Greater Idaho Corp., a subsidiary of Sierra Life Insurance Co., Twin Falls, will be the surviving company with Ponderosa Inn, Inc., operating as a subsidiary, Lynch said.

Lynch said the purpose of the merger "is to expand Ponderosa Inn, Inc.'s national franchise by merging its holdings with Greater Idaho properties in Hawaii, the Bannock Motor Inn, Pocatello, and Ponderosa Inn, Idaho Falls."

Lynch said the transaction is valued in excess of $10 million. According to Lynch, the only personnel change will be naming George Forscher general manager of the subsidiary company with headquarters in Burley.

"The motel business today is growing and the Ponderosa Inn, consisting of only 60 units in 1962, has grown to over 200 units and is one of the largest convention centers in the region, grossing nearly $2 million a year," stated Lynch.

"Activities in the franchising area have stimulated inquiries from throughout the country, both from new investors and from existing motel companies. In spite of the current growth trend, we at Ponderosa Inn are more concerned with being the finest quality innkeeper in the world, not necessarily the largest," Lynch concluded.

There are three basic techniques used to obtain data for proper pheasant management. These are: winter sex ratio counts (just completed), the crowing route counts conducted in April and May, and brood counts during the summer. Each one of these is designed to provide information for the Fish and Game Department to determine productivity to help in setting seasons the coming fall.

TWIN FALLS — "Alkali Joe," a dog owned by Rulon Everton of Twin Falls and handled by Lenn Garner, Paul, won the national Chukar Shooting Dog Championship.

The dogs were judged on how many birds they could find, their poise and intensity on point, style, and how they handle.

Second place in the Derby - Stake section of the Washington Classic was won by "Goldie," owned by Buster Goode, Rupert, and handled by Garner. Other dogs Garner has handled in recent hunting dog competition include the third place winner in the Derby Stake; third place winner in the National Chukar Shooting Dog Championship; first place in the all-ages category of the Washington Classic; and second place in the Pacific Coast All-Age Championship at Corvallis, Ore., the last week of March.

points into a one minute and three second span in the second quarter to break the game wide open.

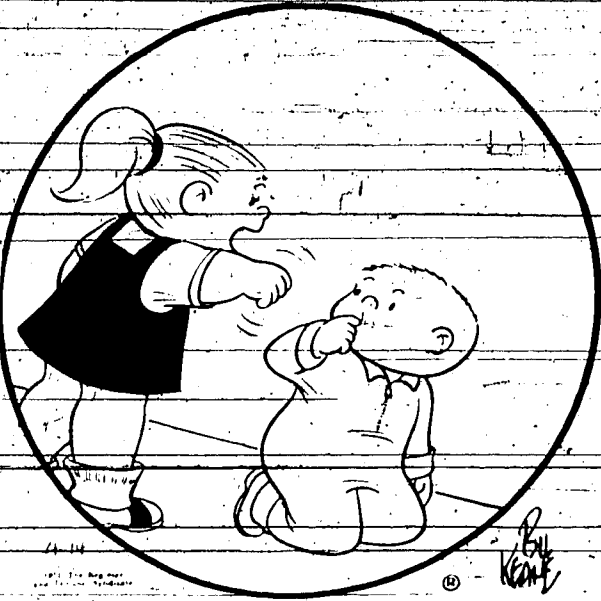

The Celtics, trailing by 13 points early in the quarter, cut the New York lead to 34-25 with 6:58 left before Jerry Lucas sank a 12-foot hook shot and Frazier put on his one-man show to give the Knicks a 45-26 lead.

Frazier hit on a layup with 5:42 left, stole the ball and scored an easy basket 20 seconds later, then sank a three-point play following a Bill Bradley steal and added a jumper from the left side with 4:39 remaining in the half.

New York held a 53-36 halftime advantage, but the Celtics chipped away at the lead in the third quarter.

Don Nelson sank a jump shot from the key with five minutes left to bring Boston within nine points again at 66-57, only to have Frazier respond with a three-point play less than a minute later.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 15, 1972

Horoscope

Carroll Righter

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Many interesting ideas are developing. You need to study them carefully to see which one fits best with your own plan of life instead of blindly accepting a glamorous one and later being disappointed because of lack of preparation. Today's leisure gives you time to think about them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study details of any property matters you have to decide upon and settle wisely. Show those in "business" that you are a precise person. The results you get will be excellent.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you cooperate with associates, you find all works out harmoniously with fine mutual benefits. Give more attention to details of your work. Try not to be too forceful with others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Finish the work ahead of you and gain the benefits, plus the approval of co-workers. You have a fine opportunity to do this since other activities are delayed. Take it easy tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) There have been tensions of late where associates are concerned, but now all eases up. Make up for lost time. Don't concentrate all your energies and time on one activity.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Quietly take care of outside duties and then do things that please those at home. Others may be annoyed with trifles, but don't let this bother you. Have fun at home tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study new ideas and then handle correspondence that is vital. Later confer with experts on a plan you have. Make arrangements for a trip you want to take soon. Study all details.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) You have many chores to do and should get an early start on them. Handle important matters first. Remember those you love with a gift. Show that you really care. Be generous.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Showing associates that you are most cooperative will keep them a part of your operations in the future, otherwise there could be some dissatisfaction. Take on more responsibility.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you study the systems of very successful persons, you can now use them in your own field of endeavor and get better results. Your wardrobe needs a little changing for best effect.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Include one who admires you and vice versa in your plans for a good time, otherwise this person could turn against you. A foolish gamble should be completely forgotten. Be wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Outside activities should be well handled today since idleness at home could lead to trouble. Then you'll know how to have harmony there in the evening. Show that you are kind.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Avoid overly glamorous persons and be with steadfast friends for relaxation and fun. Take mate along with you and intensify the enjoyment. Dress with care and make an excellent impression.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those paradoxes of nature whose intuitions will be exact at times, and just the opposite at others. Teach to follow astrology, which can be most helpful to your progeny whose planets are fixed, then this becomes a most successful chart. Faith propels the life here, and the possibilities are limitless.

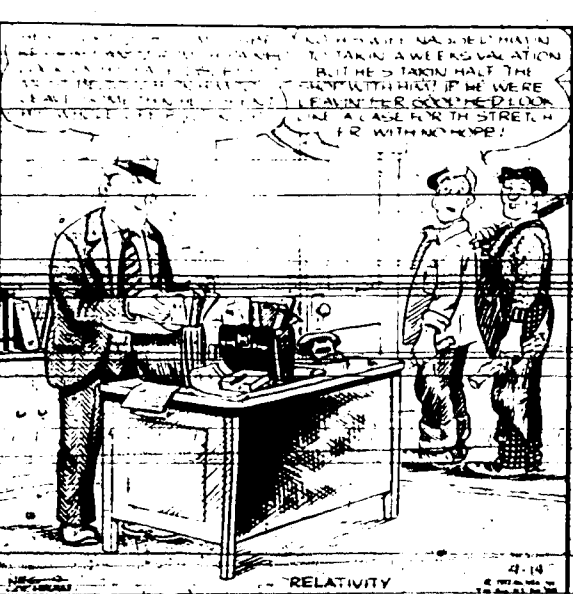

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Women at 37 Know Fashion

"Fashion is what a her does to a hem to get a him."

Changing Times

"Women know practically nothing about how to wear clothes until they're past age 27. They're at their sharpest in style at about age 37." So claims a renowned fashion designer. Interesting. Age 37, you may recall, also is known to be that year a married woman is most apt to step out on her husband.

Someplace else I'd like to see is Fairfax Hospital in Falls Church, Va. There, it's said, about 60 little electronically operated carts carry food and dishes all over the building by themselves. Roll down hallways. Turn corners. Take elevators. Unmanned. Do just about everything but insert thermometers, I gather.

For the rest of the life, a man should weigh what he weighed when he was 25, a woman when she was 22. By those ages, the skeletons have given up the growth thing. Such is the claim of a nutrition expert Dr. Gene Mayer. Too depressing, this. Let's go on.

QUERIES

That name "Wesley" started out to mean "from the west meadow," know that. But how did men come to be so-called?

Quite so, far more westerners than easterners are shareholders in stocks. But why is a mystery.

No lone dog ever whipped a grown raccoon, I'm told. Can you claim otherwise?

Q. "How big is a hummingbird's nest?"

A. About the size of a table tennis ball, but not quite so heavy. Incidentally, note the bald eagle's nest, running maybe eight feet across, weighs up to two tons.

FLIRT

Too little praise of late goes to the feminine flirt. Unfortunate. She should be honored. If women were seasons, the flirtatious girl would be springtime. Remember Winthrop's observation: "A WOMAN WITHOUT COQUETRY IS AS INSIPID AS A ROSE WITHOUT SCENT, CHAMPAGNE WITHOUT SPARKLE, CORNED BEEF WITHOUT MUSTARD."

In observing a gentleman and his ladyfriend for the first time, please examine the width of their foreheads. Whichever is the wider above the ears is bound to be the dominant party in the household. Such is the belief of those whimsical specialists who analyze personalities by facial characteristics.

Another peculiarity about that book "Tom Sawyer" it was the first novel ever submitted to a publisher in typewritten manuscript. In 1874, that was. Mark Twain was also greatly renowned in his day as a hunt-and-peck specialist.

MAJOR HOOPLE

HANSEN — No protests were made on the $20,150 Hansen City budget during the public hearing Wednesday night.

The 1972 budget reflects an increase of $2,650 over the 1971 budget of $17,500. The budget increase allows for street work and inflationary costs.

The budget includes: street lights, $1,800; well operation, $2,100; city hall lights, $130; hall maintenance, $185; irrigation, $270; water works maintenance, $1,000; streets, $2,430 pickup, $4,001; office expense, $5,001; general expense, $120; telephone, $260; salaries, $7,200; Social Security, $300; radio maintenance, $99; insurance, $1,500; sewer fees, $15; fire truck and garage, $325; parks and recreation, $700; and miscellaneous, $675.

Anticipated revenue includes water service, $7,200; irrigation, $590; taxes, $5,744; beer, wine and liquor licenses, $300; county liquor apportionment, $150; state liquor apportionment, $800; county highway taxes, $700; state highway taxes, $3,500; stock permits, $13; Intermountain Gas Co. franchise tax, $225; hall rent $25; fines and fees, $25, and miscellaneous, $298.

In other business the council took under advisement a proposal by C. G. McIntyre and a representative of Cable Vision to provide cable vision to the city.

The council retained the service of Rudy Barchas as prosecuting attorney. Emil Pike was retained as city attorney.

Jack Straubhar and Brent Bahr explained water grant applications to the council.

JEROME Superintendent of schools John B. Campbell said today he will ask the Jerome school board of trustees to name LaVere Gooch as principal of the junior high school.

Campbell said that Bill Emerson, who was approved by the board as principal of the junior high just recently, has indicated he does not want the position due to problems in scheduling and wants to remain as vice principal at the senior high school.

Emerson, who would have replaced Ray Baker, who has resigned effective the end of the school year to accept a position at Filer as superintendent, is also a basketball coach and feels to be principal of the junior high would interfere with his activities in regard to the practice of the team.

Campbell said that Gooch has consented to taking the job if the trustees approve him and that he is fully qualified to assume the position.

TWIN FALLS—The Old Time Fiddlers with Dorothy Bryson as mistress of ceremonies entertained Twin Falls Grange No. 216 at its regular meeting Wednesday night. The fiddlers presented a piano solo and vocal arrangements in addition to their regular numbers. Master Gary Custer installed new officers Cora Bodenstab, Flora, and Alfred House, assistant steward. Plans were discussed for the Grange's participation in the county-wide Johnny Horizon Clean-Up Day. The next meeting will be April 26 at 8 p.m.

Church raps White Cloud mine offer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An offer to return mined-out land to the government for park use was described Thursday by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, as being akin to returning a wife to her husband after she has been raped.

The offer was made by an official of the American Smelting and Refining Co., which plans an open pit mine at the foot of Castle Peak in the scenic White Cloud Mountains of Idaho.

Church told Keith Whiting, the supervisor of the company's exploration activities in the northwest, that he did not want to be "disrespectful" of the offer.

"But it's rather like suggesting that a wife be returned to her husband after she's been raped," he added.

The exchange occurred during the second day of senate hearings on house-passed legislation to establish the Sawtooth-White Clouds National Recreation Area to help preserve the scenic mountain area.

Whiting said the company was not opposed to a recreation area but was against proposals for a national park which would bar mining activity.

The company official said work done so far at the site of a major molybdenum deposit had been "carried out in a manner so as to have the least practicable impact on the environment."

Whiting said ASARCO, when it has completed its mining, plans to give the land back to the government.

Ernest E. Day, former chairman of the Idaho State Park Board, urged that a national park be established in the area.

and that the government condemn and pay for the company's mining claims.

Noting that pending legislation would authorize condemnation of other private property in the proposed recreation area, Day said it was "unthinkable" that it did not also provide for the taking of mining claims.

"I think that's a very good argument," Church told Day in praising his testimony.

Thomas G. Nelson, a Twin Falls, Idaho, attorney who owns a cabin in the area, said he and other cabin owners feared the legislation would be used by the forest service to force them out without adequate compensation.

Nelson urged that the legislation include a provision for "reverse condemnation" — a device under which owners could force the government to condemn their property if restrictions on its use reduced its value.

Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, sent Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate parks and recreation subcommittee, a letter supplementing his testimony of the day before.

McClure said he did not want "bickering" over a plan to halt future mining ventures to hold up the legislation. McClure had disagreed with a proposal by Church that future mining entries be permanently banned.

In the letter, McClure suggested that the withdrawal of lands from mining be made temporary pending completion of a bureau of mines study.

"If that study does not reveal substantial mineral reserves, beyond the much-discussed claims on little Boulder Creek, then the withdrawal would be made permanent," he suggested.

Library tea given by Filer club

FILER — The annual Library Tea of the Filer Women's Club highlighted Wednesday's meeting in the United Methodist Church.

Mrs. F. E. Albin, Filer librarian, gave her annual report. She said the circulation of books in the Filer City Library from January, 1971, to January, 1972, was 7,304 books.

Mrs. Albin said the new library board for 1972-73 includes Jerry Bean, president; Mrs. Wilfred Herrett, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Elizabeth Rowland, Ralph Pitts and Gilbert Chandler, board members.

The annual Blossom Luncheon of the club will be May 6 in Mary's Cafe in Filer, and will be for club members only. Mrs. Larry Davis is representing the club in the Best Cooks contest in Buhl.
